Judge Sisk Quits Seat On Bench

Associate Judge James H. Sisk, 70, of superior court, today submitted his resignation to Governor Hurley to become effective Friday.

In his letter to the governor, Judge Sisk stated that he had resigned in accordance with the terms of the new pension bill whereby he will be entitled to three-quarters of the annual salary of $12,000.

Governor Hurley announced he would accept his resignation with regret.

Judge Sisk in 1935 ruled that Howard Long must serve a substantial prison term after his discharge from Bridgewater state farm.

The judge's order was never obeyed and Long was turned loose in 1936 on his death in two New Hampshire boys.

The judge's retirement makes the eighth vacancy in the Massachusetts judiciary, which Governor Hurley must fill.

MANSFIELD MENTIONED

The last two members of the judiciary to resign were Associate Justice John C. Cronin of the State Superior Court last Monday and Judge Michael J. Murray of Boston municipal court last Saturday.

Other positions on the bench which Governor Hurley must fill are in Ayr, Newton and Wollamtown district courts, where the retiring justices died, Lowell district court, where Judge Frederick A. Foster resigned last month, and Plymouth County probate court, where death caused a vacancy.

Mayor Mansfield has been mentioned as the successor to Judge Sisk, who was an associate justice in the superior court since 1935. Another possible successor is Senator William H. McEwen of Salem, Republican. It was reported in State House circles.

MALONEY IN LINE

Judge Arthur W. Dolan of Suffolk probate court has been mentioned as the next Superior Court appointee, with John T. Maloney, executive secretary to the governor, expected to succeed Judge Dolan.

Chairman David Lasker of the Boston Finance Commission, it was reported, may succeed Judge Maloney.

Judge Sisk is the second member of the superior court to resign, the first being Chief Justice Walter Perry Hall.

After clearing out his desk in the Boston square courthouse, Judge Sisk, tears in his eyes, said, "I didn't want to leave."

May Talk 'Later'

Arriving at Norfolk, Va., today, aboard the slow liner which brought him home from England, United States Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black, above, remained silent on his reported Ku Klux Klan associations, but intimated he might make a statement "later."

Black Back; Hints Klan Air Talk

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 29 (AP)—Hugo L. Black arrived from Europe today apparently planning to resign immediately his duties as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

He maintained the silence which he refused to break during the month-long visit to England and France with regard to charges that he once received a membership in the Ku Klux Klan.

He made two things clear, however.

One was that he was going to Washington immediately, presumably to take his place on the bench which holds the first meeting of the full term next Monday.

The other was that he might make some statement, possibly over the radio, about the Klan issue.

That he would take his seat seemed assured when he told newsmen at the conclusion of an interview that they could reach him in his office in the Supreme Court building.

Mrs. Black gave a further indication of the nature of the justice's plans when she said her first job would be to see that her husband was not delayed.

'Whole Thing Off'

Agreeing to "call the whole thing off," this pretty Roxbury girl, Miss Maria Fiore, and Dr. Herbert N. Gerardell of Brookline dropped charges against each other in Roxbury district court today. He had accused her of stealing his wallet. She had brought a statutory complaint against him.

U. S. Agents Exonerated In Killing

U. S. agents have secretly questioned Dolan and that the probe of his income tax returns is now complete.

That Judge Edward F. Hurley has authorized the clerk of Suffolk superior court to release the exhibits in the city of Boston's suit against Dolan.

That execution of the judgment making Dolan liable to the city of Boston for $12,000 will be effective on October 20.

Under questioning by members of the "reckless crew" who have concentrated on his income tax returns and affairs of his Legal Service Corporation was held known to the Boston Evening American from Washington.

There, at the same time, it was revealed that a last-minute report to Secretary of the Treasury Mr. Clegg had been received which ends the long drawn-out investigation of the former city treasurer.

This report, it was said, indicated that Dolan had been exonerated.

Nab 10 In Big Drive

Ten men were seized today in a series of spectacular raids by federal narcotic agents and deputy U. S. marshals in Wilmington, Medford, Malden and in the outskirts of Lowell.

More arrests will come later, William R. Clark, supervisor of the federal narcotic bureau asserted. One of the biggest dope rings in the country will be crushed as a result, Clark said.

Eight of those seized this far are Josephine, John Murphy of Hemenway street, Back Bay; Arthur Gifford, "Birdie" Hanlon, Thomas Bialsky, David J. Cox, John Turin, Jackie Ford and James Gallagher.

The other two prisoners gave the names of William H. Simpson of Wilmington and Victor J. Assandri of Medford.

Deputy U. S. Marshals Albert F. Korman, Peter F. Taglia Jr. and Daniel J. Hartigan, Supervisors Clark and his squad of seven undercover agents in staging the raids.

All men have been under surveillance for the past night when it was learned and all are charged with violations of the Harrison Narcotic Act.

The agents were able to make their thrust into the alleged drug ring by securing a sale from one of the peddlers, according to Clark.

The ring, he said, was long known to exist here.

Exactly five of the New England entries remain in the charged circle of Talent Quarters who may be chosen for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract.

Today from the M-G-M studios at Culver City, Calif., word said that but five of the 15 finalists in the talent screen tests made under the auspices of the Boston Evening American have been eliminated.

Court Case 'Off' Pope Flays Reds, Nazis, Pagans

NATVIAN CITY, Sept. 29 (AP)—Pope Pius XI today issued a dramatic encyclical which was construed as an attack on Communist Russia, Nazi Germany and the left-winged governments of Spain and Mexico.

The document, "An encyclical letter on the misery of the Blessed Virgin Mary," urged the Roman Catholic faithful to pray against the evils of Communism and the tendency of some state leaders who were against Communism to "abuse pagan errors and morals."

The encyclical was published as the Italian press carried the text of the Italian Premier Mussolini and German Chancellor Hitler. Both heads of state had revivified against the threat of "Bolshevism" in Europe.

The encyclical urged the practice of every devotion during October which is especially reserved on religious calendars to the Virgin Mary.

$600 Somerville Holdup by 5

Five bandits in a stolen automobile today held up a party company employee of $600 in cash in a daring street corner holdup in Somerville today.

The robbery was accomplished after the bandits had crowded the car into the curb at Cedar and North streets.

The money had been withdrawn from a bank by the employee of the Acker Manufacturing Corp. in Waltham after the robbery.

The employee, Paul Wright and Arthur Paves, said that after their car had been stopped, two armed men jumped from the other car and commanded them to turn over the money.

The holdup men snatched $400 from one man and about $200 from the other, as well as a number of checks.

Before anyone could make an entry, the bandits leaped back into their car and escaped.

Klan Has 'No Man's Land' in Carolinas

Garcia, Florida Dragon, May Be Assigned Work of Rebuilding There

Heading from the South to the North in his investigation into the revival of the Ku Klux Klan in America, W. W. Chaplin stops off in the Carolinas to find a new move being launched to revive the Klan there.

By W. W. CHAPLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Charlotte, Sept. 19. (AP)—The Carolinas today comprise the No Man's Land of the invisible empire into which the Ku Klux Klan is already planning to hurl the shock troops of its militant drive for renewed power.

At present the Klan's greatest strength lies in the Deep South, particularly in its birth state of Georgia and throughout Florida. An immediate campaign, however, is already under way in the North-New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Ohio already have Klan revivals.

While the latter state are being organized to equal strength with Florida and Georgia, Klan leaders are quietly starting a campaign to bring the Carolinas back into the fold of the hooded knights.

Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans has appointed Captain George Garcia, grand dragon of Florida, to revitalize the Klan in the North-New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Ohio already have Klan revivals.

DUES GO UP
The Klan felt too discord here because of a combination of causes. When the domestic attack on the country members of the Carolina Klan dropped away, they were left with no dues to pay.

Then, also, laughter and derision played its part in breaking the Klan spirit here. Some years ago a Klan meeting and parade was planned to demonstrate Klan strength. Enemies of the Klan took advantage of the parade to hold a meeting and parade of their own.

BADGES INVESTIGATED
That caused a wave of public protest and there was a public investigation to determine how many Klansmen had been given police badges and why.

That was the end of the Klan until the present resurgence now under way.

The fiery organizers of the new Klan are planning to import new life into it, not only in the Carolinas but also in a dozen other industrial states in the north and west. Leaders of the present movement say the prospect is "highly encouraging."

At present, however, the Klan is in the hands of a few men, the Klan is in the hands of a few men, the Klan is in the hands of a few men.

Fuenerer, Vice Like Pals as Visit Ends

Chat Informally Starts Mussolini Starts Back to Italy

BERLIN, Sept. 20 (AP)—Like pale Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini parted today, ending a five-day demonstration of Fascist Nazi solidarity in troubled Europe.

Both smiled broadly and appeared to be extraordinarily well-satisfied as they "clashed hands" warmly in farewell at 3:30 p. m. on the train platform.

They chatted a few minutes with Hitler and he told him he would be back in Rome in a few days. He also told him he would be back in Rome in a few days.

CARE IS USED
Certain it is that having once left the Klan strength was the former Klan officials of the Carolinas. They were used to the Klan strength was the former Klan officials of the Carolinas.

DUES GO UP
The Klan felt too discord here because of a combination of causes. When the domestic attack on the country members of the Carolina Klan dropped away, they were left with no dues to pay.

INFORMAL FAREWELL
Hitler and Fuenerer waited before the guards the few minutes before the train started. They chatted a few minutes with Hitler and he told him he would be back in Rome in a few days.

Woe to those who would spy on the inner secrets of the Ku Klux Klan at their clandestine meetings. Pictured here are outside guards who maintain that none foreign to their organization is permitted in the inner circle. This photo was taken at an initiation ceremony of the East Point, Georgia, Klan, No. 51, at Ben Hill, Georgia.

Conference Views Full Capitulation, Says Cummings

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Attorney General Cummings today hailed the judicial conference report which recommended appointment of five new federal judges as "a complete capitulation" to President Roosevelt's court-reorganization program.

Robert Blasts Corrections Department

2 Prisoners Backed for Freedom, He Says, Both Rejected

By JAMES J. DELANEY

Charges that the Department of Corrections might release two convicted reformers, one a dangerous sex criminal, today brought to a head the controversy between Robert W. Robert, chairman of the state parole board, and Commissioner of Corrections Arthur T. Lyman.

At the new accusations were made by Robert, it was learned that Superintendent Michael J. Lee of the reformatory was speaking to Boston to confer with Lyman.

The latter refused to comment on the charges. He said he would discuss the matter with Lee, but emphasized he had not sent for him. Lee also refused all comment except to say that the men recommended for parole were prisoners whose terms were about to expire.

ANNOUNCES REJECTION
Smashing at the Department of Corrections head, Robert called on him to set his own house in order before attempting to interfere with the functions of departments outside his jurisdiction.

Robert announced that the parole board had rejected the application for the release of the two convicted prisoners.

"Here is what happens when a department head goes out of his jurisdiction about matters not within the scope of his department," Robert said.

One of the cases, Robert said, involved a man who attempted to assault on a 15-year-old girl. He explained the situation.

"The court did not make a new sentence. He was returned to the reformatory for violation of his parole and voted to serve his maximum sentence. This case was called to the attention of the parole board by the superintendent of the reformatory."

SECOND CASE
The second case was called to the attention of the parole board, Robert said, when the prisoner served two-thirds of his maximum sentence.

At the same time, the parole official decided that at the time the sentence was completed, the prisoner was committed to the reformatory at Plymouth. Robert charged.

Taking up the case of Howard Long, Robert said that the parole board had rejected the application for the release of the man.

"If the matter had been left in the hands of the parole board, Howard Long would still be confined at the defective delinquent department."

Probe Suicide of Bride, 27

Unable to find any reason why she should have taken her own life, police today probed the mysterious suicide of a Brookline bride of only six months.

The body of Mrs. Pauline Smith, 27, formerly Miss Pauline Gifford, of New Bedford, was found hanging from the rear of her home on Washington street, Brookline, to her husband, James Smith, who was returned from work. She had been dead, police say, since early in the morning.

Breakfast dishes still lay on the table, where she had just spoken cheerfully with her husband, who said police there were "in the best of spirits and had not quarreled."

Dawes, Harbord to Honor War Dead

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Former Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, of Chicago, and Major General James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America and former chief of staff under General John J. Pershing, are aboard the Europa today bound for France.

They will dedicate a Chateau Thierry memorial to Americans who died fighting in the Aisne-Marne salient during the World War.

Oust Pupils Over Flag

5 in Sudbury Schools Fail to Salute

SUDBURY, Sept. 20 (AP)—Five children of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect were under suspension from the public schools here today for failing to salute the American flag.

While the children prepared to do so in a private letter, one of the fathers, James P. Hand, denounced his religious colleagues as being neither "unpatriotic nor radical."

The children were expelled under an order by Frank H. Benedict, superintendent of schools, and approved by the school board.

They are Evelyn Rand, 16, and Sarah Rand, 13, daughters of Jacob P. and Minnie Rand, Old Marlboro road; Roberta Anderson, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, of the same address; Samuel Brannen, 8, and Ruth Brannen, 13, children of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brannen, who live in a cottage beside the main house of the colony.

Knife May End Buzz in Head

Miner Will Undergo Unusual Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20 (AP)—Physicians prepared today to cut out George Wynn, 44-year-old Luzerne county miner, of a growing tumor, "like a swarm of locusts," in his head.

Yenn, a resident of Wapkesburg, yesterday denied the rumors that have bothered him for two years with 300 Temple Medical School students and professors.

With his head "wired" for sound, the miner sat on the stage in the operating room auditorium. From a loudspeaker poured a rhythmic roaring and whistling noise.

The observers could also see the tumor as it was translated into light waves moving across an oscilloscope graph.

Dr. Temple Fay, chief neurologist, explained the noise resulted from an aneurysm—the rupture of an artery behind the eye—caused by a rock dropped on Yenn's head as a mine in February, 1935.

Dr. Fay said he contemplates an operation to cut the tangled artery in the neck, relieving the flow of blood, and thus relieving the pressure.

Ransom Demand Seen in Ross Kidnaping

Letter Sent Victim's Wife; U. S. Agents Enter Case

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (AP)—Receipt of a special delivery letter which, investigators hinted, contained ransom demands spurred the inquiry today into the kidnaping of Charles R. Ross, 12-year-old retired manufacturer.

The letter, written in pencil and postmarked Washington, D. C., was delivered to Ross' wife last night. A belief that demands were made was bolstered by the advent of federal agents in the case.

The letter shared attention with a clue to the identity of a man, believed to have "put the finger" on the victim for the kidnaping.

Cecil Vandever, a hollister at the Hotel Hamilton, St. Louis, saw a stranger take to Ross in the hotel lobby about an hour before the abduction. Yesterday Vandever turned from police files a photograph which said resembled that of the man.

"Married? Who Cares?"
Romayne Liverpool of Somersetville was putting across a Madge Evans line from "Dinner at Eight," when cameras caught her in this pose during New England Talent Quest tryouts at the Hotel Bradford.

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 (AP)—The monstrous routine of work and relaxation for the four unwashed girls who shared their last night's tea end for today's competing of the Soviet party competition on a drifting ice floe was described today by their radio sponsor, Ernest Kessel.

At breakfast, Kessel said, they were adding to the inconvenience of their existence, "caviar, cheese and butter for us, but they had difficulty eating them, and we showed them how to eat them."

Unwashed Reds Find Polar Life Dull

1 Rinses Face Every 2 Weeks But Can't Get Clean at All

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 (AP)—The monstrous routine of work and relaxation for the four unwashed girls who shared their last night's tea end for today's competing of the Soviet party competition on a drifting ice floe was described today by their radio sponsor, Ernest Kessel.

At breakfast, Kessel said, they were adding to the inconvenience of their existence, "caviar, cheese and butter for us, but they had difficulty eating them, and we showed them how to eat them."

Sixteen scantily clad persons, including nine children, were forced to flee into the rain early today when a fire of undetermined origin swept through a two-story wooden building on Homer avenue, Cambridge.

'Rob the Robot' Faultless; He Grades 20,000 Exams

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 29 (AP)—Rob the Robot just has completed flawless grading of 20,000 freshman examination papers for Georgia's university system.

Rob is a mechanical professor perfected by a national machine company and educational foundation.

During the past 10 days, Rob took the examination papers from all the schools in the state's university system, absorbed them and spat them back in piles, along with the scores.

During the 10 days, said F. R. Boers, university examiner, this machine accomplished work which formerly required the combined two weeks' efforts of 300 persons throughout the state.

Here is how the cold-hearted grading machine works: The examination paper, on which the freshman has penciled his "X" in either "yes" or a "no" column, is inserted in the machine. Electronic blades inside Rob descend on the paper and record the position of the mark.

The blade then relays an electric impulse to a recording meter, which adds up, calculates and registers the grade.

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

I suppose that the late E. A. Filene was one of the most famous of American business men. Even when I was in college I used to hear about him and his ideas, which in those days were probably what would be considered pretty advanced.

Of late years, I suspect, America and particularly American business must have caught up to him and the ideas which he used to consider practically "Futurist."

After the times of the "Futurist" are now almost a matter of course, especially in the matter of relations between management and employees.

In my family as ever had a kind of feeling that Mr. Filene belonged to the family, especially ever since the day when my wife married into the gentleman and I met him under the impression that he was my father. My father had a marked resemblance to the Filenes and was "fitter" than I am then for one of the others.

A few years ago I had the opportunity of meeting Mr. Filene at a luncheon group when he frequently for a time and in which Mr. Filene was the dominant personality, for he was very quiet but obviously the best mind and the most informed mind present.

Usually Had Final Word On Question of Policy

He did not say very much, but undoubtedly he knew a great deal about all sorts of matters of business and political interest and when it came to a question of policy he usually had the final word. He would chip in crisply and unhesitatingly and want to be said to say was usually the last word in the matter.

Then, too, he knew what was going on in Washington and even abroad and could tell you many things which were prophetic, not common knowledge. If you watched events carefully, you would often find that Mr. Filene said would be the result of subsequent events.

He was one of those business men who had a keen sense of things and he knew his own mind. He was a wise and liberal philosopher. He was not regarded so much as a man of one idea like the late J. P. Morgan, or the single-minded S. D. Warren whose interest in the enclave at Harvard, Mass., is so marked, or even the Brookline elevator man, A. B. See, whose ideas on men and education sometimes make him appear a bit ridiculous.

Human Side of Business His Greatest Interest

E. A. Filene was interested in many things of which good government and the little deal were only a part. Like the late Arthur D. Little, the research genius, whom physically he greatly resembled, he had the gift of speech and of writing and was therefore able to put his ideas into rational circulation.

Mr. Filene was working to popularize research in business, while Mr. Filene, even after he retired from active business and management, was always more interested in the human side of business, the relation between management and the employee which long ago was connected with his name and the firm's business policy.

He obviously knew a great deal about economics and was greatly interested in the changes in public opinion that have taken place in recent years away from the old classic economies toward the newer notions about co-operation in business and a policy in management which, while avoiding strict paternalism, did much to liberate employment policies in retail merchandising.

Modern Business Ethics Ours Much to His Influence

His mind was always alert and inventive. He was credited with having invented and made a nationwide success of the automatic bargaining "punch." The credit union, the consumer cooperative, the National Chamber of Commerce were among other things which his alert and inventive mind worked upon, with the result that his influence far transcended his own firm, the City of Boston and the state of Massachusetts. He was undoubtedly a national figure. The history of modern business ethics and principles owes much to his busy and active influence.

Like Theodore Roosevelt he felt that the best way to bring peace politically and industrially was first to eliminate complaints that he felt were well grounded on the assumption that once they were taken care of, the remainder could be handled in a practical and business-like, but just, manner.

Apparently he saw in some of the Administration's policies opportunities to carry out on a national scale ideas which he had always held in private business. On some of these matters he was working when he died. His idealism will be greatly missed, not only in Boston but in America's business at large.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Helen Hayes

Guest writer of the Girl About Town column today is Helen Hayes, talented stage and screen star, who is appearing at the Shubert Theater in "Victoria Regina."

You may imagine that interviewing yourself would be easy. Especially as my husband, Charlie Marshall, is a journalist turned author. He used to be a reporter on this very newspaper. But I find that asking and answering my questions is a real business.

I find myself turning to the last few questions first. I know, they are invariably asked me. They want to know how I manage to remain so young and so beautiful. After seven years I don't have a wrinkle. I don't have a gray hair. I don't have a single hair out of place.

Well, my answer is that I have a very good skin. I have a very good skin. I have a very good skin. I have a very good skin. I have a very good skin.

Most Actors Welcome Newspaper Criticism

Once the interview gets down to strange questions and answers, I am on former ground. Most actors welcome the criticism and suggestions of newspaper people. Right now there is a good deal of criticism in the theater world. New York is a good deal forward to a record in years. That's why it's a good deal forward in years.

There's a question that's usually asked me. "Helen, do you ever get tired of being a star?" I think the stars have an easier time of it than stage folk.

Frankly, I think the screen people have a harder time of it. They must get up at dawn, be in a scene in the morning. Spend hours waiting in the line for the rain, or in the sun. And a lot of times, they are the most popular of the people. Literally, they spend hours every day in the hands of beauty people. I used to think they got fabulous salaries. Now I don't think they are paid half enough.

I believe the requirements for success on the stage and screen are much the same. Actors need to be beautiful. In fact, I can think of very few who are not. If you consider "beauty" in terms of regular features, Of course, beauty might be a handicap. But I mean to say that charm and understanding, and all of the characteristics that make up "inner" beauty are more important.

Many Stars Concentrate On Improving Personalities

I think that is why so many women, particularly those who are not great beauties, have made a success of acting. Not content with their mirrored reflections, they have concentrated on improving their personalities. To me, the two most glamorous women actresses today are Katharine Cornell and Greer Garbo. Both are lovely, but their charm is not dependent on physical attractiveness.

This reminds me of a point someone asked about the other day.

"Is it easier to laugh or cry on the stage?" Let me assure it is much easier to cry. Laughing, naturally, is one of the most difficult and usually the last lesson in stage technique. You know, babies cry long before they learn to laugh. So do actors.

And another thing that may interest theatergoers. Often the easiest role in any play is the highly dramatic one. The most difficult parts are those in which an actress is required to carry on every day conversations or speak matter-of-factly lines.

Helen's Chief Hobby Is Collecting Antiques

One of the cruelest tests in the world for a beginner is to ask him to say: "Won't you sit down?" Try it. You'll find that it's hard to say it naturally.

Ina Claire, I think, is a very clever actress because she has the knack of making the most of inconspicuous things. It is never forced or affected. She sounds effortless. Audiences don't always realize how difficult that is.

It occurs to me that no interview is complete until the interviewer has inquired about the hobbies of the person interviewed. Mine are antiques. That's one reason I love to come to Boston. I straightaway take a dash for Charlie's street.
